A month after lockdown eased for Geoff Moulder

Five weeks ago the Government announced that our leisure centres could reopen their doors after months of closure and staff adapting to working differently to keep our members fit and health throughout this pandemic, today we see us reach a milestone of 10,000 visits since reopening.

Geoff Moulder Leisure Centre began a phased reopening on Saturday 25 July 2020 after extensive measures were taken to maximise safety.

The water was tested, the building deep-cleaned, ventilation maximised and new COVID-aware signage installed throughout so residents can be confident about returning safely.

As part of the changes, visitors and members are not be able to do walk-ins. All sessions must be pre-book online at www.mybostonuk.com/gmlc/ or in person in the centre.

The £8K external funding received for developing the online studio will put us in the forefront of online classes within the county.

Sanitiser stations have been put in place around the centre and staff continue to follow a strict cleaning regime between sessions. They have had many positive comments from users about how safe they feel while using the centre.

"When the Government announced the re-opening last month it was brilliant news for the many residents who I'm sure missed being able to keep as active as normal during the lockdown," said Cllr David Brown, portfolio holder for leisure services.

"Our team worked endlessly to maximise safety for visitors and were delighted to welcome them all back."

Ann Rowland, gym member, said: "I am really happy to be back at the gym after its Covid-closure. I feel safe coming back knowing that there are safety measures in place for everyone visiting. I trust that the staff have put all the measures in place that the Government have issued and that when I am visiting I am as safe as I possibly can be when leaving my home.
